Market Test of Experimental Product—
Metro Post

Docket No. MT2013-1

CHAIRMAN'S INFORMATION REQUEST NO. 2

(Issued October 2, 2014)

To clarify the basis of the Postal Service's request to extend and expand the Metro Post market test,<sup>1</sup> the Postal Service is asked to provide written responses to the following questions. Answers should be provided as soon as possible, but no later than October 8, 2014.

1. In its Request, the Postal Service states that it plans to expand the Metro Post market test to a number of additional metropolitan areas over the next year. Please identify the additional geographical areas where the Postal Service plans to test Metro Post.
2. According to a report by the United States Postal Service Office of Inspector General (USPS OIG), the Postal Service planned to suspend the Metro Post market test in San Francisco by March 1, 2014 and re-initiate the market test in San Francisco once it could secure participation from large retailers.<sup>2</sup>
  - a. Please confirm that the Postal Service suspended the Metro Post market test in San Francisco on March 1, 2014. If not confirmed, please explain.

<sup>2</sup> See USPS OIG Report, Metro Post Same Day Delivery Pilot – San Francisco District: Management Advisory Report, Report Number DR-MA-14-002, February 5, 2014, at 1.

- b. Please explain if the Postal Service has re-initiated the Metro Post market test in San Francisco, or if the Postal Service plans to re-initiate the market test in San Francisco during the proposed one-year market test extension.
- 3. During the initial period of the market test, which lasted until January 2013, the Postal Service provided same-day delivery service for no more than ten qualifying e-commerce companies.<sup>3</sup> Each company received same-day delivery service for up to ten participating locations and was limited to 200 packages per day. Id. at 2-3. The Postal Service stated that "these restrictions could be lifted after the Postal Service has been able to further test its operational capabilities to provide same-day service during the initial period of the test." Id. at 3. The Commission directed the Postal Service to file a notice prior to "changing the market test, e.g., number of customers and number of packages."<sup>4</sup>
  - a. Please explain whether the initial restrictions on the market test are still effective in each geographic area where the Postal Service plans to test Metro Post. If not, please describe any limitations to the number of customers, participating locations, and packages in those geographic areas.
  - b. The Postal Service stated that participating companies must be "qualifying online e-commerce companies....with at least ten (10) physical locations nationally, one or more of which must be within the defined metropolitan area of the market test." Notice at 2. For each geographic area where the Postal Service plans to test Metro Post, please explain whether participating companies must meet the same criteria, or whether they will be subject to different eligibility criteria.

<sup>4</sup> Order Approving Metro Post Market Test, November 14, 2012, at 8 (Order No. 1539).

4. The Postal Service states that “[t]esting has begun in new metropolitan areas to confirm [its] operational capabilities in these additional areas....” Request at 1. Please explain what this testing entails and whether it involves providing same-day delivery service in those areas.
5. Please discuss how the proposed expansion of the Metro Post market test to other metropolitan areas “will not create an unfair or otherwise inappropriate competitive advantage for the Postal Service or any mailer, particularly in regard to small business concerns.” See 39 U.S.C. 3641(b)(2).<sup>5</sup> In your response, please discuss how Metro Post prices compare to the prices charged by all same-day package delivery competitors in the metropolitan areas where the Postal Service plans to offer Metro Post.

By the Chairman.

Ruth Y. Goldway
